Everyday Activities to Promote Visual Efficiency Ellen Trief 2009 Early intervention services are essential for infants and toddlers who are visually impaired and have some functional vision that they will be able to use for everyday activities--not only to ensure their early development but also to help them learn to use their vision with maximum effectiveness, right from the start. Everyday Activities to Promote Visual Efficiency offers guiding principles for early intervention with very young children who are visually impaired and who may also have additional disabilities. This important new resource provides simple activities that can be incorporated easily by families and service providers into the everyday routines of a baby or child to facilitate early visual development and use of functional vision.

Clinical Decision Making in Complementary & Alternative Medicine Matthew Leach 2010-07-16

There are few published texts that address professional practice issues in complementary and alternative medicine (CAM). There are no known works that describe a clinical framework for CAM practice. The majority of texts on CAM to date explore the use or efficacy of specific CAM interventions, and whilst the proposed text will also highlight evidence-based interventions, it will also inform practitioners how to apply these interventions within a clinical decision-making framework. - Introduces a systematic framework to CAM clinical practice - Focus on evidence-based practice without ignoring the underlying philosophy of complementary and alternative medicine. - Includes learning objectives and learning activities to not only consolidate reader knowledge, but to assist educators to effectively teach the process to students of CAM. - Enables CAM practitioners to systematically assess, diagnose, treat and evaluate client-centred health problems in accordance with CAM art, science and philosophy. - Guides CAM practitioner thinking, assessment and care, which may help to increase professional autonomy and practitioner accountability; improve client outcomes and quality of care; and reduce decision-making error. Clinical Decision Making in Complementary & Alternative Medicine is also unique in that it:• focuses on evidence-based practice while also paying attention to the underlying philosophy of complementary and alternative medicine• includes learning objectives and activities to consolidate reader knowledge and help lecturers teaching complementary and alternative medicine students• enables complementary and alternative medicine practitioners to systematically assess, diagnose, treat and evaluate client-centred health problems in accordance with the established art, science and philosophy of complementary and alternative medicine• guides practitioner thinking, assessment and care - all of which may help increase professional autonomy and accountability, improve client outcomes and quality of care, and reduce errors in decision making Critical Reflection Strategies Using Teams Francesca Sofu 1995 This book is designed to provide individuals with practical assistance in introducing and using critical reflection strategies. It is intended for workshop facilitators whose aim is to assist committees, organizations, and various groups in solving problems. The book explains procedures for Critical Reflection Strategies using Teams (CReST), a general method for working in groups and teams. Part A outlines the need for a new paradigm in critical reflection. It presents definitions and descriptions of interpersonal communication and problem-solving skills that form the basis of learning in CReST, discusses who could benefit from CReST, and ends with a summary of expert opinions about the facilitator's role. Part B explains CReST in detail. Two levels of CReST (simple and complex) are outlined. The following important aspects of setting up these strategies are discussed: how to introduce CReST using feed forward, how to handle feedback, and how to debrief people at the end. The role of the facilitator is explained in some detail. Part C focuses on theory, defines reflection and learning, and explores the links between them. It examines the concept of learning in organizations. A case study is presented that shows how to develop reflective practitioners by using CReST. The Critical Reflection Inventory Self-Report Scale included here allows for self-assessment of one's own critical reflection attitudes and skills. Appendixes include a list of 73 references and index. (YLB)
