EQUAL Making Change Possible European Commission. Directorate-General for Employment, Social Affairs and Equal Opportunities. Unit B4 2005 Mainstreaming is one of the key principles of the EQUAL Community Initiative which is testing new ways of tackling all forms of discrimination in the labour market. Mainstreaming is a process which enables innovations and good practices to impact more widely on policy and practice. Mainstreaming is a challenging process. How can we ensure that innovative results developed and tested at project level are actually transferred to mainstream policy and practice? The guide presents information, tools and practical examples covering the entire mainstreaming process from the identification of policy needs to the development and implementation of mainstreaming plans. In April, a Learning Seminar on mainstreaming, using an earlier draft guide to inform discussions, was held in Dublin. EQUAL managing teams (Managing Authorities and National Support Structures) from both old and new Member States discussed strategies, compared different approaches and worked out practical ideas and solutions through group work. It was very well received by the participants and the outcomes were used to inform the final version of the Guide. Although the guide has been designed to support the work of EQUAL Managing Authorities and their National Support Structures it will have relevance for other organisations with an interest in the transfer of innovations from other programmes or initiatives into the mainstream.
