The Carbon Fix Stephanie Paladino 2016-11-18 Given the growing urgency to develop global responses to a changing climate, The Carbon Fix examines the social and equity dimensions of putting the world's forests—and, necessarily, the rural people who manage and depend on them—at the center of climate policy efforts such as REDD+, intended to slow global warming. The book assesses the implications of international policy approaches that focus on forests as carbon and especially, forest carbon offsets, for rights, justice, and climate governance. Contributions from leading anthropologists and geographers analyze a growing trend towards market principles and financialization of nature in environmental governance, placing it into conceptual, critical, and historical context. The book then challenges perceptions of forest carbon initiatives through in-depth, field-based case studies assessing projects, policies, and procedures at various scales, from informed consent to international carbon auditing. While providing a mixed assessment of the potential for forest carbon initiatives to balance carbon with social goals, the authors present compelling evidence for the complexities of the carbon offset enterprise, fraught with competing interests and interpretations at multiple scales, and having unanticipated and often deleterious effects on the resources and rights of the world's poorest peoples—especially indigenous and rural peoples. The Carbon Fix provides nuanced insights into political, economic, and ethical issues associated with climate change policy. Its case approach and fresh perspective are critical to environmental professionals, development planners, and project managers; and to students in upper level undergraduate and graduate courses in environmental anthropology and geography, environmental and policy studies, international development, and indigenous studies.

Visible-near Infrared Spectroscopy in Cytology Differentiation and Quantification Birthing Suhainah Sudik 2024-10-15 Visible and near-infrared, known as VIS-NIR spectroscopy has emerged as a highly promising alternative to conventional laborious wet chemistry methods for qualitative and quantitative analysis of samples. VIS-NIR spectroscopy has successfully been employed in the analysis of a wide variety of applications from food quality analysis to environmental monitoring, medical diagnosis and even in arts and archaeology. This book presents the state-of-the-art method for profiling cancerous cells using the VIS-NIR spectra between 400 nm and 1100 nm. What makes our book truly exceptional? The cell culture techniques, spectroscopic experimental setup and statistical methods are presented in detail, conveniently allowing readers to replicate the study. In this book, the study was specifically conducted on mouse skin fibroblast (L929), human cervix adenocarcinoma (HeLa) and human prostate carcinoma (DU145) cell lines. These cell selections are commonly used in cytotoxicity, anti-cancer, antiproliferative and diagnosis research. Whether you're a student specializing in cell studies or a researcher immersed in optical-based instrumentation and measurement techniques, this book is your essential companion for success.
